EDUCATION

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, NC, 2003-2006

Ph.D. in Geography (Climatology Concentration) – May 2006

Dissertation: Synoptic Climatology of Northwest Flow Snowfall in the Southern Appalachians

Appalachian State University, Boone, NC, 1996-1998

M.A. in Geography – May 1998

Thesis: Health Personnel Distribution and Physical Access to Primary Health Care in Andean Bolivia

Duke University, Durham, NC, 1992-1996

B.A. in Comparative Area Studies (Bolivian Andes and Southern Appalachians) – May 1996

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Professor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 2018 to present. Teaching undergraduate and graduate geography courses, maintaining an active research agenda, advising students, directing undergraduate and graduate student research, maintaining meteorological research stations, and serving on departmental, college, and university committees.

Meteorology Team Co-Leader, National Geographic and Rolex Perpetual Planet Expedition to Mt. Everest – 2019. Led the installation of five meteorological stations on Mt. Everest at elevations between 3,810 and 8,430 m, including the two highest in the world.

Graduate Program Director, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 2015 to 2019. Directing graduate program in geography; recruiting graduate students; advising all first year graduate students; working closely with Graduate School on all topics related to graduate education and research.

Associate Professor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 2014 to 2018. Taught undergraduate and graduate geography courses, maintained an active research agenda, advised students, directed undergraduate and graduate student research, maintained meteorological research stations, and served on departmental, college, and university committees. Director of Peru Summer Study Abroad program, 2014 to 2018.

Assistant Professor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 2008 to 2014. Taught undergraduate and graduate geography courses, maintained an active research agenda, advised students, directed undergraduate and graduate student research, maintained meteorological research stations, and served on departmental, college, and university committees. Founding member of the Appalachian Atmospheric Interdisciplinary Research (AppalAIR) program. Co-director of Andean Ecuador Summer Study Abroad program (2009) and Director of the Peru Summer Study Abroad program, 2010 to 2013.

Adjunct Assistant Professor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 2006 to 2008. Taught undergraduate geography courses, maintained an active research agenda, advised students, and served on departmental and university committees. Co-director of the Andean Ecuador Summer Study Abroad program in 2007.

Adjunct Instructor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 1999 to 2006. Taught undergraduate geography courses. Organized and facilitated GIS workshops in the Spatial Outreach Laboratory (SOL). Organized and directed the Andean Bolivia Summer Study Abroad Program in 1999, 2000, 2001, and 2003.

Graduate Teaching Assistant, University of Washington, Department of Geography, 1999 to 2001. Taught Maps and GIS and supervised a graduate teaching assistant. Taught two laboratory sections of Urban GIS and served as a teaching assistant for Introducing the Physical Environment and Geography of Health and Disease.

GIS Laboratory Supervisor and Adjunct Instructor, Appalachian State University, Department of Geography and Planning – 1998 to 1999. Supervised the Geographic Information Systems (GIS) laboratory and taught four undergraduate courses.

ALPINE MOUNTAINEERING EXPERIENCE

Summary

Dr. Perry has over 20 years of alpine mountaineering experience that includes an installation of a meteorological station at 8,430 m at the Balcony on Mt. Everest in Nepal, ascents of Illimani (6,435 m) and Ancohumana (6,427 m), a first ascent of the southwest face of Sorata Este (5,460 m), and extensive field work on glacierized surfaces above 5,000 m. He has formal training in glacier travel, crevasse rescue, ice climbing, and avalanche forecasting. Dr. Perry has slept at elevations above 5,000 m on 105 nights (above 6,000 m on 10 nights) and has climbed to his team's AWS at 5,650 m on the summit plateau of the Quelccaya Icecap 21 times since 2014.

Climbing and Research Expeditions on Glacierized Peaks

Volcán Tupungato (6,570 m), Central Andes, Chile; February 2021. Climbed to 6,505 m to install a weather station as part of a National Geographic research expedition.

Huayna Potosí (6,088 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; August 2019. Ascended to summit and then dug snow pit on lower angle glacier surface at 5,900 m to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Mt. Everest (8,430 m), Khumbu Himal, Nepal, May 2019. Climbed to the Balcony as part of a team that installed the highest weather station in world as part of National Geographic Everest research expedition.

Lobuche East (5,960 m), Khumbu Himal, Nepal, May 2019. Acclimatization climb as part of National Geographic Everest research expedition.

Cho La Glacier (5,300 m), Khumbu Himal, Nepal: January 2019. Tested ice core drilling and trained with Sherpa team in preparation for April/May Everest expedition.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; September 2018. Serviced AWS and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis. Assisted with ground penetrating radar survey and ice coring activities.

Ancohumana (6,000 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2018. Dug snow pit on icefield below summit pyramid to measure SWE, snow density, collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analyses.

Chaupi Orcko (5,500 m), Cordillera Apolobamba, Bolivia; July 2018. Dug snow to measure SWE, snow density, collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analyses. Avalanche danger prevented further ascent.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2018. Led students from Appalachian State University to visit AWS and dig snow pits as part of field study course.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; March 2018. Serviced AWS and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analysis.

Huayna Potosí (6,000 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2017. Ascended to summit ridge and then dug snow pit on lower angle glacier surface at 5,900 m to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Ancohumana (6,000 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2017. Dug snow pit on icefield below summit pyramid to measure SWE, snow density, collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analyses.

Illimani (6,435 m) via normal route, Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2017. Dug snow pit at 6,300 m after summiting to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analyses.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2017. Serviced AWS and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analysis.

Ancohumana (6,427 m) via the West Face (70°), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2016. Dug snow pit to measure SWE, snow density, collect samples for stable isotope and trace element analyses. Normal route was not passable due to crevasse on northwest ridge; West Face presented challenges with considerable water ice and a large Bergschrund.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2016. Serviced AWS and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2015. Serviced AWS and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; November 2014. Released radiosondes as part of field campaign from the base and serviced AWS.

Quisoquipina (5,150 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru. November 2014. Serviced AWS maintained by SENAMHI Peru in ablation zone of glacier.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; October 2014. Serviced AWS.

Quelccaya Icecap (5,650 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; August 2014. Installed AWS with comprehensive precipitation monitoring station and dug snow pits to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Osjollo Anante Icecap (5,540 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2014. Took down AWS due to developing major crevasse hazard and evidence of destabilization of ice cliffs.

Osjollo Anante Icecap (5,540 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; July 2013. Serviced AWS installed in April 2012.

Osjollo Anante Icecap (5,540 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; October 2012. Serviced AWS installed in April 2012.

Chumpe (5,750 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; April 2012. Dug snowpit to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis. Avalanche danger and weather prevented climbing higher.

Osjollo Anante Icecap (5,540 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; April 2012. Installed AWS approximately 100 m from edge of ice cliffs on the eastern margin.

Chumpe (5,700 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; August 2010. Dug snowpit to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis. Avalanche danger prevented climbing higher.

Osjollo Anante Icecap (5,670 m), Cordillera Vilcanota, Peru; August 2009. Dug snowpit on summit to measure SWE, snow density, and collect samples for stable isotope analysis.

Cotopaxi Volcano (5,600 m), Ecuador; May 2009. Dug snowpit to measure SWE and density of annual layer.

Villarica Volcano (2,860 m) via the normal route, Chile; March 2003.

Ancohuma (6,000 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 2000. Ascended to base of summit pyramid but turned back due to unstable snow conditions.

Mt. Rainier (4,392 m) via the Disappointment Cleaver Route, Cascade Mountains, WA; September 1999.

Soral Este (5,460 m), Cordillera Apolobamba, Bolivia; July 1999. Completed first ascent of the southwest face (60-65°).

Ancohuma (5,700 m), Cordillera Real, Bolivia; July 1999. Ascended to 5,700 m via the normal route but turned back due to poor route conditions.

Mt. Baker (3,286 m) via the North Ridge (70°), North Cascades, Washington; June 1999.

Pequeño Alpomayo (5,200 m) via the normal route, Cordillera Real, Bolivia; June 1993. Ascended to base of the summit pyramid.

Mountaineering and Avalanche Courses

Intermediate Ice Climbing Course, American Alpine Institute, Mt. Baker, WA; June 1998. Course covered ice axe use and self-arrest, snow and ice anchors, glacier travel, crevasse rescue, ice climbing, and culminated with a successful climb of the North Ridge (70°) of Mt. Baker.

Advanced Avalanche Forecasting, Northwest Avalanche Center, Crystal Mountain, WA; February 2000. Course covered snow science, mountain meteorology, and terrain with specific application to the Cascade Mountains. Included full day in the field digging, analyzing, and interpreting snow pits.
